The Bold City Contemporary Ensemble 2017 Call-for-Scores Results

We announced our first Call-For-Scores on Feb 15, 2017 and were deeply touched and excited to receive compositions from around the world. Our goal is to foster creativity and the promotion of 21st century music by composers of all ages, to connect with that music ourselves, and to share it with our concert-goers in upcoming seasons.

First and foremost, thank you for sharing your music with us! We look forward to developing a working relationship with each of you at some point in the future, so please stay in touch by email, on FaceBook, and via our website. (info@boldcity.org, www.boldcity.org)

We received 425 scores in 3 categories from composers of all ages. Through a fascinating and overwhelming journey of new-music-exploration, we really struggled to make final decisions! There were so many deserving works: if yours isn't among those selected it may be only because we tried to balance the full selection stylistically. We need you all to keep writing and exploring. Be brave and Bold.

Due to the large number of pieces we truly enjoyed and would like to perform we decided to announce more selections than we initially intended and spread them over our 2 upcoming seasons, 2017-18 and 2018-19. The pieces we selected for performances are listed below in their corresponding categories. We will next decide how to pair them in each concert over the next two seasons. Selected composers will be contacted by email to arrange score and parts acquisitions as well as to discuss details.

Thank you again for sharing your music with us! And stay tuned for concert announcements.

We are excited to announce our selections for the 2017-2018 and 2018-2019 seasons...
